12 Common Summertime Skin Rashes in Children

Sunny days and starlit evenings spent playing, splashing, and exploring can leave kids with more than warm summertime memories. Balmy weather also can lead to itchy, irritated skin.

Check out the list from the American Academy of Pediatrics (AAP) to see how you can help prevent, identify, and soothe these common summertime skin rashes.

1. Heat Rash
2. Poison Ivy & Other Plant Rashes
3. Eczema
4. Insect Bites & Stings
5. Impetigo
6. Swimmer's Itch
7. Cutaneous Larva Migrans (Sandworms)
8. Folliculitis (Hot Tub Rash)
9. Molluscum Virus
10. Juvenile Plantar Dermatitis (Sweaty Sock Syndrome)
11. Tinea (Ringworm)
12. Hand, Foot & Mouth Disease

Remember

Protecting your child's skin is a year-round concern, but it's especially important in the summer months when so much skin is exposed and vulnerable. Fortunately, many summertime rashes clear up quickly on their own. Be sure to talk with your pediatrician about any rash that you're unsure about—especially if you don't know what caused it, if it is making your child feel miserable or doesn't clear up quickly, or if it shows signs of infection or is accompanied by any shortness of breath.
